15:30 Welcoming speech / presentation of the speakers

15:40 Key changes in the Public Procurement Law from the point of view of procurement participation strategy:

- Contractors from the so-called third countries – can they be disadvantaged?
- Selection of an optimal procurement participation structure (e.g. the possibility of differentiating the consortium's situation with regard to individual contractors)
- The so-called “third parties” and their participation in contract performance
- “Third parties”, subcontractors and further subcontractors – effective verification of business partners, problems with documents and creating bids
- Requirements for hiring persons to perform the contract under an employment contract
- Bid evaluation criteria – will anything actually change?

16:30 Violations in public procurement procedures and their consequences for the company and for the management staff:

- Selected premises for exclusion from the procedure:
  - conflict of interest;
  - giving untrue or misleading information;
  - attempt to unlawfully influence the actions of the contracting authority;
  - anti-competition agreement;
  - non-performance or improper performance of a public procurement contract in the past.
- What is “self cleaning” and how to use it effectively?
- Violations in public procurement procedures in the light of criminal liability:
  - individuals directly liable for a violation;
  - companies;
  - management staff;
 including recent and planned changes in penal regulations.
- Other selected consequences of violations of public procurement procedures

17:30 Questions and answers, discussion

Networking and exchange of opinions over a glass of wine
